

My name is Kristin Gettleman. I have 6 siblings where 5 are older than me. I grew up on a small farm where I learned my work ethic at a young age. I had a very hard-working father who instilled in us to never let the person beside you outwork you. Your responsibilities come first, everything else comes second. I am very genuine, outgoing and I tend to wear my heart on my sleeve. I am a self-taught family-and-real estate photographer who loves to capture moments that my clients can reflect on for generations to come.

I came to CRCI for many reasons. One I believe in CRCI's mission to help men and women fight addiction. Two I want to see each person that comes through the program find Christ, but I also want them to find confidence in themselves and heal from their past. Finally, I wanted to work for an organization that will help me to grow in my faith. I want to witness Christ working every single day in a more intimate way and I want my heart to be filled with abundance of joy and riches. We all have been through tough times, especially since the pandemic. Through this ministry I want to help restore faith in humanity and if I can help and believe in a mission to do that, then so can you.

I am looking forward to my new career as Engagement Manager, but if I had to be honest with you, I feel like I'm right where I need to be. Please consider reaching out to me if you want a sense of purpose and you want to give back to the community and volunteer. I'd be honored to work alongside each one of you.
